RISING STAR

By Alan Norton

Melanie Cook, aged 13, is the new champion gymnast. Last night she won the national competition and will represent Scotland in the international competition next month. After winning the competition, a tearful Melanie told me how happy she felt. She said that all her hard work had paid off. Melanie follows a very strict diet and practises every day. She said that she doesn't have any friends, but doesn't have time to be lonely. All her spare time is taken up with practice sessions with her coach, Selina Smith, herself an international champion. Melanie is very slim and supple. Her graceful movements and rhythm impressed the judges who gave her maximum points. When she was asked if she had any regrets, she admitted that she would like to have friends, like other teenagers, but now that she is national champion, she is really proud to represent her country.

B. AMATEUR EXCELLENCEBy Sheila King

Harry Carpenter, aged 13, is the newest and youngest member of the Brislington Harriers. On Saturday he took part in the cross- country race, competing against other teams. Although he didn't win, he was pleased with his performance. When he arrived at the finishing line, muddy and exhausted, he said that he was over the moon about completing his first race for the club. He said that he didn't want to be a professional athlete, but run for fun. He thought that too much training would take up all his spare time, so he wouldn't be able to meet his friends. Harry also likes swimming and football, but does these just for fun too.

‘International Beans’

After water, coffee is probably the most popular drink in the world. Coffee has many positive properties that are good for your health. Drinking coffee can help reduce the chances of getting some cancers, stomach and neurological diseases, type 2 diabetes, and even heart disease.

Coffee has had a long and interesting history on its road to becoming the much-loved drink that it is today. The coffee bush was first discovered in Africa in the 9th century. The coffee berries that grow on the bushes contain coffee beans which can be made into a drink. The recipe for this drink was passed from Africa to the Middle East, to Europe, and then to America.

Even though the drink we know as coffee is well known all around the world, most countries have their own special way of making it. ‘Cowboy coffee’ is made in Finland and Norway by mixing coffee and boiling water together in a kettle and pouring out the liquid into a cup without the grounds. Turkish coffee is made by mixing very finely ground coffee and sugar in a small pot with a long handle called an ibrik. The ibrik is held over a fire and then removed when the coffee comes to the boil. The mixture is poured into a small ceramic cup and drunk slowly, leaving the grounds at the bottom. Italians typically drink small cups of espresso every day and usually don't even sit down when they order it; they drink it and leave. Many people in the U.S. have an electric coffeemaker which uses a filter to separate the water from the coffee. Hot water drips through the grounds and comes out as the drink they know and love. There is even a way to make coffee using a roasted coconut and the milk inside it! Whichever way you prefer your daily cup of coffee, there's no doubt about it, coffee is something the whole world loves!
